RESEARCH PROJECT

TITLE: INTELLIGENT BASED WATER QUALITY ASSESSMENT USING SOFT COMPUTING APPROACH

Abstract:

For the life of human beings, water is necessary. While nearly 70% of the water on the earth is drained, just 3% of the rest is known to be fresh water. Moreover, approximately 2.6% of the water trapped in glaciers and polar ice caps, contained in the soil or water is heavily poisoned or unnecessarily drained below the earth's surface. So only 0.4% of the drinkable water in the world is shared by the 7 billion inhabitants. Fresh water is therefore a valuable resource to be regulated and properly maintained. The machine learning algorithm has also been used to forecast the water quality based on its data set, which is learned from a number of water samples. This system has been modeled by using the U_{D00}* 86 Ultra and Teensy++2.0 data processors at low budgets. Then in the second stage of the research work Enhanced Automated Machine Learning Model called EAMLM is developed. Moreover, the proposed model utilizes Internet of Things (IoT) based sensors to obtain the quality factors of water such as pH rate, Temperature, Nitrogen, Phosphorous, Total Hardness and Total Dissolved Solids (TDS). The model integrates the IoT analysis with the operations of Machine Learning methods to evaluate the real-time data of water samples obtained from local areas. In particular, the EAMLM algorithm is framed with the combined efficiencies of Modified Ranking based on K-Nearest Neighbours and Random Forest (RF) model. Further, Raspberry Pi3 a low cost kit embedded for sample testing is used and the model is simulated and evaluated using WEKA tool. The classification results show that the EAMLM provides better accuracy than other traditional models. Thereafter in the third stage of research a novel model called Water Quality Evaluation and Monitoring Model (WQEM) has been developed which utilizes machine learning and Internet of Things (IoT) technique for performing water quality test. Moreover, Water Quality Index that estimates the basic water qualities based on that Quality Classification is also used along with Multi Layer Perceptron (MLP) based classification model. This work mainly focuses on the water fluoride content and other factors such as Dissolved Oxygen, Total Dissolved Solids and pH. The experimentation is carried out using Raspberry Pi3 test kit and WEKA tool using the real-time data.

M.E PROJECT

TITLE: TOPOLOGY DISCOVERY IN HETEROGENEOUS IP NETWORK.

Abstract:

Knowledge of the up-to-date physical topology of an IP network is crucial to a number of critical network management tasks, including reactive and proactive resource management, event correlation, and root-cause analysis. Given the dynamic nature of today's IP networks, keeping track of topology information manually is a daunting (if not impossible) task. Thus, effective algorithms for automatically discovering physical network topology are necessary. Earlier work has typically concentrated on either 1) discovering logical (i.e., layer-3) topology, which implies that the connectivity of all layer-2 elements (e.g., switches and bridges) is ignored, or 2) proprietary solutions targeting specific product families. In this paper, we present novel algorithms for discovering physical topology in heterogeneous (i.e., multi-vendor) IP networks. Our algorithms rely on standard SNMP MIB information that is widely supported by modern IP network elements and require no modifications to the operating system software running on elements or hosts. We have implemented the algorithms presented in this paper in the context of the Net Inventory topology-discovery tool that has been tested on Lucent's own research network. The experimental results clearly validate our approach, demonstrating that our tool can consistently discover the accurate physical network topology with reasonably small running-time requirements even for fairly large network configurations.

B.E PROJECT

TITLE: RECONFIGURABLE COMPUTING USING VLSI

Abstract:

Reconfigurable architectures can bring unique capabilities to computational tasks. They offer the performance and energy efficiency of hardware with the flexibility of software. In some domains, they are the only way to achieve the required, real-time performance without fabricating custom integrated circuits. Their functionality can be upgraded and repaired during their operational lifecycle and specialized to the particular instance of a task. We survey the field of reconfigurable computing, providing a guide to the body-of-knowledge accumulated in architecture, compute models, tools, run-time reconfiguration, and applications.
